DROUGHT AREA SOIL IS BAKED 8 INCHES DEEP

Once Fertile Prairies Are Transformed into Dismal and Parched Landscape —a Scene of Desolation

CATTLE WANDERING Among the Parched Crops and Along the Roads in Search of Food

By CYRIL W. PLATTES.

Jamestown, N. D., June 27.—(AP)—The worst drought in the history of Stutsman county has transformed once fertile prairies into a dismal landscape.

As far as the eye could see today were blackened and yellow fields, many without rain for a year. Wheat, burned and brittle, was heading four to eight inches from the sun-seared soil—if at all.

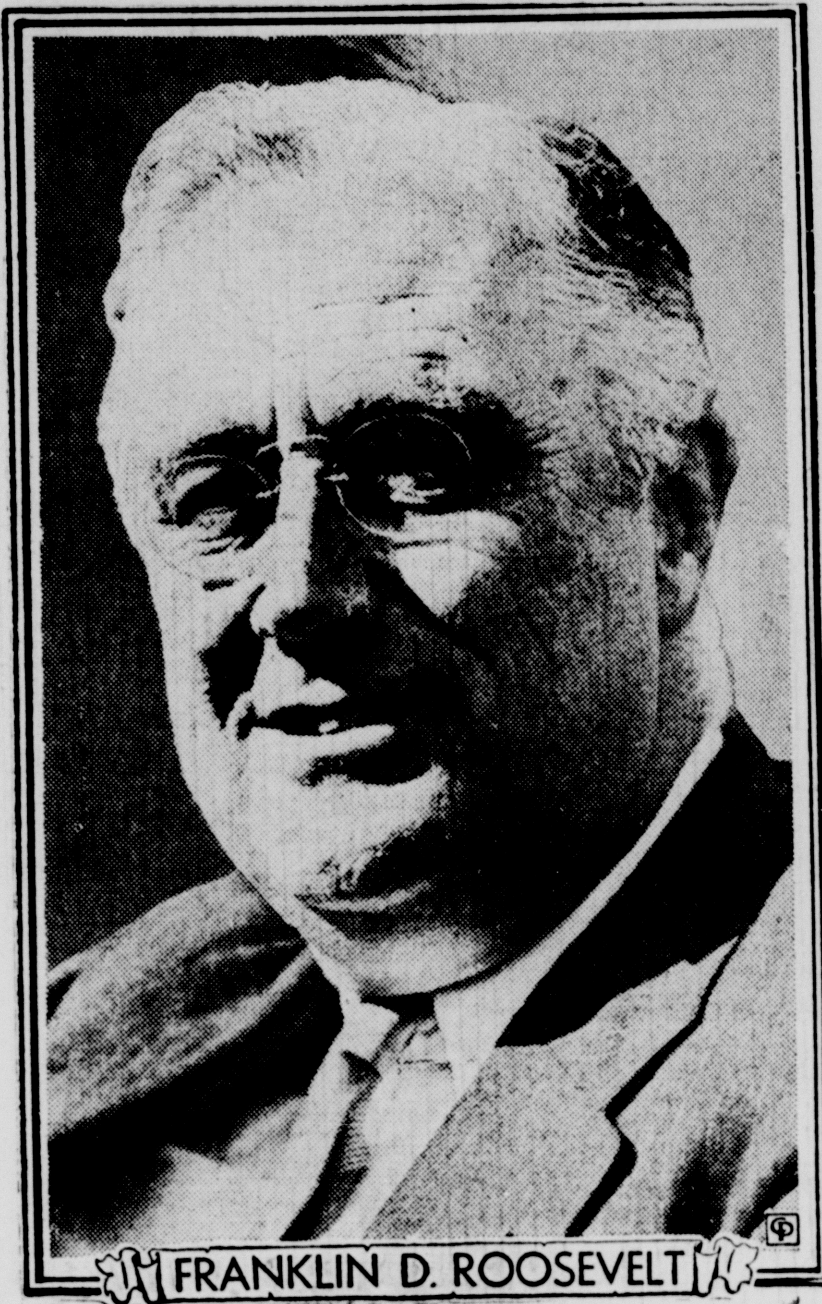

Cattle wandered among the parched crops and along roads, for again for such sparse vegetation as they could find. A lengthening cavalcade of trucks, bearing abnormal loads of livestock from the ravaged region, rumbled through this community at the gateway to an area of blight that stretched northward over three-fourths of the state.

"I've been here 27 years and have never seen anything like it," said G. P. Conway, secretary of the North Dakota Grain Dealers association.

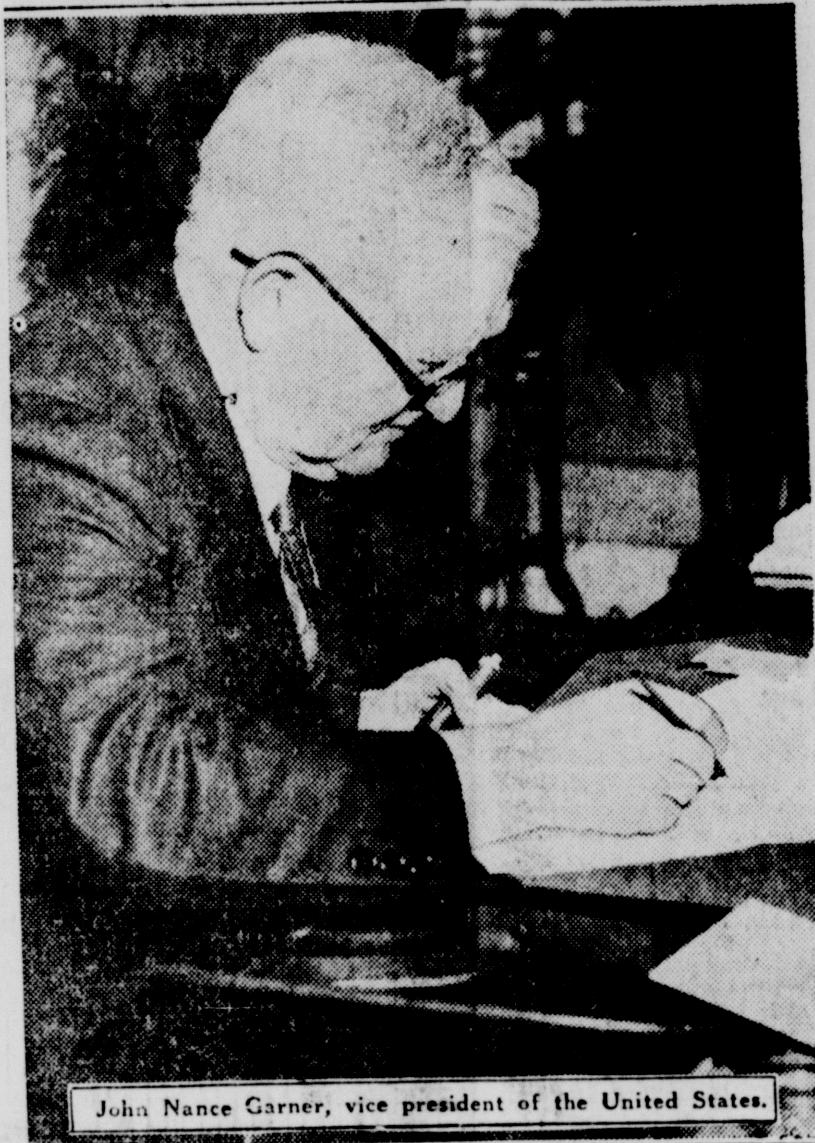

"It's developing into a catastrophe. The farther you go west the more serious it becomes. The only bright spots, outside of a few scattered areas which have had rain,"

THREE FOUND GUILTY OF CONSPIRACY

ONE OF THESE IS A FORMER U. S. ATTORNEY

Brooklyn, N. Y., June 27.—(AP)—Three men were found guilty today by the jury in the Drunkman conspiracy trial.

They were Henry G. Singer, former assistant U. S. attorney, Jacob Silverman, an electrical goods dealer, and James J. Kleinman, step-father of Assistant District Attorney William W. Kleinman.

The jury said it had not yet agreed on verdicts for the other two defendants, Assistant District Attorney Kleinman, and Detective Giuseppe F. L. Dardis.

The five men on trial were charged with conspiracy to obstruct investigation of the slaying of Samuel Drunkman, a Brooklyn garage employee, who was beaten and strangled March 3, 1935.

Collegian Killed, 5 Hurt in Brawl In Beer Garden

Bouncer, an Ex-Police-man, Held For Murder in Charleston, W. Va.

Charleston, W. Va., June 27.—(AP)—A sudden volley of shots fired during a beer garden brawl ended the life early today of Leo Nizer, 23-year-old West Virginia university football star and wounded five other persons, including a girl.

Two were clubbed in the head. The disturbance happened so quickly in the downtown garden Police Chief W. A. Tully said:

"I don't suppose we ever will know exactly what did happen."

He placed a charge of murder, however, against Okey Deboard, a former city patrolman and "bouncer" at the establishment.

Miss Opal Clark, one of those wounded slightly, told Tully: "It was about midnight. Two boys were arguing in the entrance. Deboard got in between them and someone pushed or knocked him down. He got up firing his gun in one hand and swinging a black-jack in the other. I ran."

None of the injured were hurt seriously.

Nizer lived in St. Albans, 15 miles west of Charleston. He was a triple-threat backfield player and sophomore on last year's Mountaineer eleven.

DISTRIBUTORS PREDICT THE INCREASE WILL RAISE RETAIL PRICE

Cleveland, June 27.—(AP)—Members of the United Milk Products Federation of Cleveland and representatives of 140 city distributors agreed to a new price of $2.23 a hundredweight for class 1 fluid milk today, an increase of 28 cents over the price maintained in the last two months.

Distributors predicted that the increase would raise the retail price of milk one cent a quart. A price to the farmers of $1.55 a hundredweight for Class 2 milk and $1.09 for Class 3 milk was set.

OHIO AGAIN QUESTION MARK AT DEMOCRATIC CONVENTION

Davey Second Roosevelt Nomination in Surprise Maneuver That Arouses Speculation as to Whether State and Federal Administration Harmony Restored

By H. H. DAUGHERTY.

Philadelphia, June 27.—(AP)—Political observers sought the full significance today of a maneuver that took Gov. Martin L. Davey to the Democratic convention platform to second renomination of President Roosevelt.

The Buckeye state's chief executive, an administration critic, was announced as the Ohio seceder after three days of indecision. A previous announcement by Charles West, undersecretary of the interior, said that he would.

ZIONCHECK'S BRIDE NOW FACES ARREST

SHE'S ACCUSED OF ASSAULT BY APARTMENT LESSOR

Washington, June 27.—(AP)—An assault warrant sworn out recently against Mrs. Ruby Nix Zioncheck, bride of the Washington state representative, was ordered served immediately today by Leslie C. Garnett, the United States attorney for the district of Columbia.

His order followed a demand by Mrs. Benjamin Scott Young, who swore out the warrant after she was injured in a scuffle with the Zionchecks over possession of an apartment she had sub-leased to them.

Arrest of representative and Mrs. Zioncheck on Mrs. Young's charges was postponed when the congressman was committed to Gallinger Hospital for mental observation. Court action to determine whether Zioncheck is sane was dismissed here yesterday after relatives agreed to keep him for an indefinite period in the Sheppard and Enoch Pratt Hospital at Towson, Md., near Baltimore.

Portsmouth, O., June 27.—(AP)—A group of workers besieged in the wire mill of the strike-closed Wheeling Steel Corp. plant ate regular meals but did not know when their food supply would be replenished again.

LEGIONNAIRES ARRIVING FOR CONCLAVE HERE

BIG PARADE SUNDAY

Get - together Saturday Night and Business Sessions Sunday

The first of the several hundred Legionnaires and their families began arriving in Washington C. H. early Saturday afternoon to find the city not only packed with the customary crowd of week-end shoppers but to be dazzled by colorful decorations from one end of the up-town section to the other in their honor on the occasion of the District convention lasting through to Sunday night.

Not in years has Washington C. H. been decked in such gay and festive attire. The store fronts draped with the national colors left no doubt that the city's hand was extended in warm welcome to the former World War soldiers.

The early arrivals came for a golf tourney at the Country Club. Few, however, were in evidence up-town except as they drove through or stopped at the Paul H. Hughey Post headquarters in Memorial Hall long enough to get their bearings and a program for the conclave.

The last time Legionnaires gathered here—that was four years ago and for a district conference—the golf tournament brought out forty entrants. This year the turnout was not expected to be as large and the play was arranged along more

ONLY THREE MEN IN PEN DEATH ROW

SMALLEST NUMBER TO OCCUPY TINY CELLS IN ROW'S HISTORY

Columbus, O., June 27.—(AP)—Only three men, the smallest number in recent history, sat in the tiny cells of the century-old Ohio penitentiary's death row today.

Of these Richard Keller, convicted hold-up slayer of a Cincinnati laundryman, was scheduled to die next Wednesday.

Last minute stays of execution have saved all three just when they were resigned to death in the electric chair. Likewise all three have seen several other condemned men go down to the deathhouse.

John Pleyer, 31-year-old member of the "Blonde Tigress" hold-up trio, learned yesterday that Cuyahoga County Prosecutor Frank T. Cullinan asked the Ohio Supreme Court to dismiss his appeal for a case review. The appeal saved him from dying with Donald Eberle, another member, this week. Eberle, in a statement made while being strapped to the chair, declared "Johnny's innocence."

James Brown, 28-year-old Cleveland negro, is the third death row inmate, scheduled to die soon for the slaying of a railroad detective attempting to force him from a train.

In his speech he contrasted economic conditions in the South and North.

Quarantine Broken By Papa Dionne To Visit Quintuplets

Callander, Ont., June 27.—(AP)—Olivia Dionne crawled through a drainpipe today to see her famous daughters, the quintuplets.

He had been barred from the Dafoe hospital, where the 25-month-old girls are quartered, because his home is under quarantine for measles suffered by the older children.

The three policemen on duty at the hospital behind a high wire fence were amazed when the quintuplets' father suddenly appeared in the yard. They permitted him to look through a window at the little girls.

Dionne went away as he had come—through a drainpipe under the fence. The policemen plugged up the pipe after he had gone.

Dr. A. R. Dafoe said later it might be possible for Dionne and his wife, who is expecting another child, to enter the quintuplets' hospital tomorrow, provided the danger of measles' infection is past.

JUNE RAINFALL IS FAR SHORT

Ohio Has Had Only One-Third of Normal June Rainfall

Washington, June 27.—(AP)—The Weather Bureau reported today that widely scattered showers were indicated for the drought stricken Dakotas.

Rain in the drought areas over the last 48 hours, the Bureau said, was too light to relieve the situation. Continuance of extremely hot weather was predicted.

AAA officials said the administration definitely planned to offer farmers option crop insurance in connection with soil benefit payments which coincided with efforts in other directions to meet the drought disaster with relief employment and reduced freight rates.

The Ohio valley, J. B. Kinser of the Weather Bureau said, is fast approaching a critical state in soil moisture. Ohio has had only 33 per cent of its normal June supply; Indiana 37 per cent; northern Illinois 37 per cent, southern Illinois 42 per cent, eastern Kansas 21 per cent, and central Kansas 33 per cent.

FOLLOWERS OF LONG SUED FOR MILLION

TAXES AND PENALTIES ARE ASSESSED BY TREASURY

Washington, June 27.—(AP)—The Evening Star said income taxes and penalties aggregating more than $1,000,000 would be assessed by the Treasury against followers of the late Senator Huey P. Long despite the dropping of income tax evasion charges against them.

Nolle prosequi of income tax evasion charges was approved by the Justice Department over protests of the Treasury. Taxes and penalties involved in six of the more important indictments that were dropped were said by the Star to approximate more than $195,000.

The story added that Seymour Weiss, Treasurer of the Long organization, and 10 other close friends of the late Louisiana Senator, would have 90 days in which to pay or to appeal to the United States Board of Tax Appeals.

The charges against Weiss and certain others in the Long organization were nolle prossed recently by Rene Viosca of New Orleans, Federal District Attorney.

ACCEPTANCES ARE PLANNED FOR TONIGHT

Philadelphia Convention Wild with Enthusiasm in Making Selections

DELEGATES WORN OUT

Arrangements Made for Thousands to Hear President's Speech

By EDWARD J. DUSFY.

Convention Hall, Philadelphia, June 27.—(AP)—Twice unanimous, the Democratic convention renominated Roosevelt and Garner today for the already-accelerating presidential campaign.

Both the president and vice-president will accept the campaign mandate before a mammoth audience at Franklin Field this evening.

It will be the first time in American history that both candidates of a political party have been nominated and formally notified in a space of 24 hours.

A din of "ayes" from the crowded floor ratified Roosevelt for the leading place on the ticket at 12:42 a. m., (EDT).

After a rest, a subdued and smaller assemblage of the delegates formally designated his running mate at 1:52 p. m., just before adjournment of the ninth and final session.

The convention adjourned sine die at 2:19 (EDT).

Placed in nomination by Gov. James V. Allred of Texas, Garner was given his demonstration in a march led by his fellow south-westerners.

Their rebel-ry was loud and frequent; but the scene contrasted with yesterday's pandemonium for Roosevelt as many of the wearied delegates contented themselves with looking on.

In the 20 minute parade through the aisles, the six flags under which Texas has been covered in times past fluttered above the broad, white sombreros of their bearers.

The vice-president himself listened-in at his hotel. He preferred to "take a walk" he had joked with friends, in disdainful suggestions that he visit the convention.

The popular old-timer smoked cigar after cigar while awaiting the President, who was expected shortly before the time scheduled for the notification climax, ten p. m., daylight time.

Administration leaders looked for the President to follow much the same theme he did four years ago, after flying to Chicago to accept his first nomination.

None doubted he would embrace the platform, pledge a fighting campaign, and invite support of political independents.

Tammany Hall and the United Mine Workers were among the groups represented by seventeen seconders for Garner. Without mentioning names, Judge John F. Carew of New York said he spoke for a Tammany "which never betrays or deserts." Thomas Kennedy, of the mine union, predicted a Pennsylvania majority for the ticket.

Worn down by 56 nominating and seconding speeches, interspersed with cheers, songs and parades, the delegates called on reserves of enthusiasm when Senator Joseph T. Robinson, permanent chairman, finally banged the gavel signalling a vote.

They quickly suspended the rules to choose Mr. Roosevelt by acclamation on motion of Gov. Tom Berry of South Dakota. This marked the first time in 20 years that no roll call ballot was required. It also was the first time in

GARNER JUST TAKES IT EASY WHILE BEING RENOMINATED

Vice-President Goes to Bed Early and Gets Up Early —He's Reluctant to Talk Much But Is Ready With Acceptance Speech.

By DOUGLAS B. CORNELL

Philadelphia, June 27.—(P)—John Nance Garner decided to "take a walk before formally accepting Saturday night his renomination for the vice presidency.

Of course, it was not the Al Smith kind of walk but a stroll in the early morning quiet (comparatively speaking) through the festooned streets.

Garner came to town last night, dropped in briefly on a giant banquet of young democrats, dined with a few friends in a hotel, then went to bed at 9:30 after declining to let a maid pull down the covers in advance. (He likes to turn them down himself.)

"I guess I'll get up about 7 and get some of this good Philadelphia air," he said.

"What is your program for the day?" reporters asked.

"I'm not going to do a dog-gone thing," he said. "What is there to do?"

The vice-president chose to pass up today's convention session, called to go through the formality of renominating him.

With a rolling laugh, Garner conceded that he would be on hand tonight at Franklin Field where he will be notified of his renomination.

"Inasmuch as I have a part in that proceeding, I'm going down there."

Of the ceremony itself, the renomination of President Roosevelt and the party platform, he had not a word to say. He explained that he hadn't been talking much for more than three years and wasn't going to begin.

He did, however, address a few remarks to the young democrats.

"I talked with the president yesterday," he said. "He told me, 'Jack, I hope you are going to give those young democrats a good talk.' I said, 'now, boss, you know I don't do any talking.'"

"I belong to the firm of Roosevelt and Garner. The senior member does all the leading and talking and I do all the work."

When he went to bed, several officers were stationed outside the door to see that revelers did not disturb him.

But before he had retired, Chairman James A. Farley took him aside and with mock seriousness informed him:

"John, everything's all right. I think we've got the nomination in the bag."

"That's the main thing," Garner responded. "It looks like you're a good field marshal."

A SNAKE OR RAT! CHIEF UNCERTAIN

BUT RAT IS FOUND HIDDEN IN BASEMENT WALL

Attracted by reports that a large snake had been seen in the room occupied by The Washington Produce Company, in the alley back of the Y. M. C. A. building, Saturday morning, Chief of Police Jack Wolfe went to the scene to investigate, and if necessary, slay the reptile.

One of the employees of the place stated that he had seen a large snake as it was crawling down a hole in one corner of the room.

So into the basement the snake hunters went, armed with a flashlight, and after a search of the pitch-dark basement without results, the searchers were about to leave when the light was turned into a hole in the basement wall, beneath the spot where the snake was reported to have vanished, and the glittering eyes and snuffling nose of a huge rat showed back in the wall.

It was also reported that eggs in the place had been broken and the contents eaten out—such as would have swallowed the eggs.

However the workmen who told of seeing the snake declares he could not have been mistaken, and is still watching for the reptile to reappear through the hole in the floor. Meanwhile Chief Wolfe, knowing that snakes and rats are not companionable, is puzzled over the affair and expects to take another look.

TIME CHANGES ON THE B. & O.

Made Necessary by Increased Passenger Business

A new change of time in the passenger train schedule becomes effective on the B. & O. Railroad, Sunday, the change being made necessary by increased passenger business under the two cent fare which went into effect the first of June.

Passenger trains 34 and 37 will be run from Cincinnati to Pittsburgh instead of Cincinnati to Columbus, so that the six passenger trains operated daily on the Midland division of the road will run between Cincinnati and Pittsburgh.

Not only has the passenger business of the B. & O. and other roads shown a pronounced pick-up, but freight business has steadily increased.

Saturday for the first time in many years during the summer months a light doubleheader was sent east after coal, and will bring back approximately 8,000 tons of coal for points west.

The new time change follows:

West bound—No. 33, now due at 2:50 p. m., will arrive at 3:35 p. m. No. 37, now due at 6:52 p. m., will arrive at 7:49 p. m.

East bound—No. 34, now due at 10:45 a. m., will arrive at 10:40 a. m.

LEAGUE MOVES AT SNAIL PAGE

Six Latin American Nations Withdraw from Organization

By WADE WERNER

Geneva, June 27.—(P)—Revision of the League of Nations covenant was handed to the assembly today as council delegates declined to begin the proposed reform.

The council held to its original purpose of reviewing the Italo-Ethiopian war with the list of anti-sanctionist nations growing steadily.

Latin American departures from the League of Nations were swelled today by the resignation of Nicaragua, Guatemala, Paraguay, Costa Rica, and Brazil already are outside the fold and it is reported that Honduras may follow suit.

Observers suggested Nicaragua's withdrawal indicates an ambition on the part of central American states to set up a Pan-American League of Nations.

Informed sources predicted before the assembly meets Tuesday so many member states will have rejected the war penalties any debate on the cancellation proposal will have become needless.

From his hotel overlooking the League palace, Emperor Haile Selassie watched the parade away from sanctions which for eight months have been the League's "punitive" measures for Italy's condemned aggression in East Africa.

Three new states—Uruguay, Haiti, and Poland—joined Great Britain and France in the sanctions-scraping sector. Still others have unofficially signified their intention of lifting the economic and financial penalties against the Fascist nation.

Italian observers, watching the proceedings in the absence of the official delegate, said they considered sanctions "liquidated already."

The negus, however, assured questioners his subjects would refuse to "live under the heel of an aggressor."

The emperor, in a communication to the League, declared his government was the only legal administration in Ethiopia. He invited members of the League to supply money and arms in order that Ethiopia might continue her struggle against Italy.

Several Hundred Montenegro Farmers Backing It

Belgrade, Yugoslavia, June 27.—

PARKING METERS O. K. SAYS JOHN BRICKER

Columbus, O.—(P)—Opening the way for installation of parking meters in Ohio cities, a ruling was given by Attorney General John W. Bricker Friday that municipalities may charge motorists a small fee for parking on the streets. The ruling is the first of its kind in Ohio. The ruling in effect stated that money for purchase of parking meters must come from a city's general revenue fund.

SHORTAGE OF FARM LABOR HERE TO BE MET BY FEDERAL AGENCY

A farm labor shortage is threatening in Fayette county during the next three weeks, as wheat and hay harvest added to the vast amount of farm work that must be done during that time, and already reports from some section of the county indicate that the supply of labor has been inadequate to meet the demand for hay harvest, let alone the addition of wheat harvest which will be in full blast during the coming week.

However R. B. Tharp of the National Re-employed service announced Saturday that he had at least 100 men available to send to any point where labor was required, and if farmers will call the National Re-employment office, 3261, or apply in person at the office 104 East Market street, he will get in touch with men wanting work and send them out.

County WPA Engineer Crane stated that while no WPA projects were to be discontinued, insofar as he knew, that men could be withdrawn to aid the farmers, providing the wage was not less than 30 cents an hour, the basis rate fixed for such work. The WPA rate is a little higher than this amount, but does not include dinner, such as usually furnished on the farm.

It is pointed out that there is no charge for assisting the farmers in obtaining help from the men enrolled with the National Re-employment Service, and that such work is the main purpose of the service.

It is expected that the supply of labor available will not be adequate to meet all demands in the county during the next few weeks, inasmuch as corn plowing, hay and wheat harvest and other farm work all come together during that time.

Our Shade Trees

Perhaps with some folks the change has come so gradually, through a series of years, that it has not been noticed, many others may have noticed the change and been duly appreciative of it but, anyway, the fact that our city can once again boast of its beautiful shade trees in the residential districts is worthy of mention.

There is nothing, in our opinion, that so adds to the beauty of a city or town as fine shade trees. Some Ohio cities—Marietta especially—base their claim to popular acclaim as beautiful places, largely upon the fact that their residential sections are well shaded.

Time was, back yonder, several years ago, before our streets were cut down and improved when this city could boast of its beautiful shade trees. That was when we had the sidewalks of irregular slabs of limestone.

Then our hometown began to emerge from a village into a city with the result that most all of our shade trees were cut down and years of nakedness followed.

We were quick to arrange for restoring the trees. Young trees were planted but it has required years of waiting and years of attention to attain the present status which warrants us in again pointing with pride to our wealth of shade trees.

It's a pleasure now to drive along the shaded streets of our residential sections where, in many places, the elms, the maples and some oaks form a canopy overhead.

In the years past while the work of restoring was going on we had the good sense not to plant many of the "water poplars" and other quick growing but short lived trees, contenting ourselves to place our faith in the sturdy elms and maples and oaks to bring us, in the years to come the pleasure which only trees can bring.

Many of those who planted the shade trees, of which we are so proud today, did not live to see the results. We, though, have profited by their foresight. Our trees are members of our community, our pleasure and our claim to fame. They should be preserved.

The Blackberry Crop

It's not very pleasing but, nevertheless, it seems to be a fact that the blackberry crop, at least hereabouts is destined to be so short as to be almost a total failure.

Nearby, in the hills to the south of us, lies one of the greatest blackberry producing sections in the country. The majestic hills of Ross, Pike, Scioto, Highland and Adams counties yield, annually, under favorable weather conditions, enormous quantities of the luscious blackberries, perhaps, all things considered, the most popular berry that grows and certainly the most abundant in production.

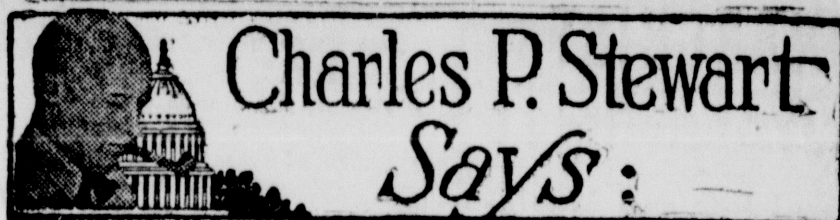

First, in the early season, come the fresh blackberries and cream, then the pies and the jams and jellies each in order as the season advances.

In our opinion the blackberries stand without a rival in the world of berries. They are cheap and they are delicious. For stacking up the pantry shelves for winter, there is no berry or fruit that surpasses the blackberry in excellence of flavor and substance. And, best of all, they are free for the taking. The hills are generous with their wealth of berries. The thousands of acres of "no man's land" in the quiet hills are free to all. City and town folks go down there and take all they want "free gratis for nothin'" and the hill folks do the same and sell them for a snug sum of money.

Now, in good seasons, the highways are congested with motor vehicles bringing blackberries to market. Formerly it was the trains on the D. T. and I, which in, extra baggage cars, brought the berries to market.

This year the berry carrying caravans will not be so numerous. The drought has cut the crop to the vanishing point and this winter many families will be disappointed when they go to pantry shelves.

DEMOCRATIC SHOW S TRUNG OUT TOO LONG

By CHARLES P. STEWART

Philadelphia, June 27—The great trouble with this year's Democratic national convention has been that it has had to be strung out too long.

It was unavoidable in order to enable the hotel and other business men, who put up the cash to have the gathering held in Philadelphia, to get their full money's worth out of the visitors.

However, everything it was necessary to do had been so completely settled in advance that the proceedings easily could have been pushed through in five or six hours. Prooing the minto a couple of days, to allow for some more or less superfluous speeches, wouldn't have been so bad, but nearly a week of it has been tiresome.

NEWSMEN AND RADIO

It's been tiresome, anyway, to the newspapermen, the photographers, the telegraph folk and the broadcasting systems' staffs, who arrived in Philly already nearly prostrated by what they had been through in Cleveland.

A delegate has only his own party's convention to attend.

We non-partisan toilers have one right on top of another—more than that, some of us, who have to "cover" the smallish affairs, like the Socialists', et cetera.

IT'S NO FUN

The actual work isn't particularly exhausting; we have to work way.

It's the standing around in hotel lobbies; all seats occupied. It's the traveling up and down 'steen flights of stairs at a time; all elevators being so overworked that they won't stop for additional passengers. It's in being packed like sardines into the press section of a convention hall; if one has an inside seat he can't get out, but if he has an aisle seat all hands climb over him.

It's an extraordinary thing that, whenever a group of politicians choose to fall into a huddle in some hotel office or convention hall corridor, they invariably select a doorway or similar bottleneck, where it's impossible to get past them.

But if a politician wants to get by a newspaper man he shoves him roughly.

CONVENTION FEET

Being everlastingly pawed and clawed in a crowd for the duration of an entire national convention, and then being similarly pawed and clawed for the duration of a second one, is mighty wearisome.

Standing up most of the time is wearisome also.

There's a technical name for what it results in.

"Convention feet" they call it. Likewise the continual yowling and land playing and miscellaneous noise-making get on the human nerves after a while.

MORE NOISY

What's more, Philadelphia's convention has been a more uproarious performance than Cleveland's was.

The Philadelphia newspapers have asserted the contrary. Their version is that the applause in the Cleveland hall scored more "decibels" of sound than Philadelphia's.

Maybe Cleveland did squeeze out a few more "decibels" in some one spot than Philly.

But Cleveland had only one rip-snorting outburst.

There hasn't been a moment's peace in Philadelphia.

The Philadelphia hotels have been worse jammed, too; Philadelphia's traffic control isn't as good as Cleveland's; its prices are a lot higher; its convention hall isn't as convenient.

On all these 'counts it would appear that this has been decidedly a more enthusiastic celebration than the one in the northern Ohio metropolis. That is to say, it has if discomfort and expense signify enthusiasm.

The reason, I think, that the Philadelphia newspapers don't admit it is because they're mostly Republican and consequently incline to discount the Democrats' "decibels."

TRAIL BLAZERS

Who Made Ohio History

By R. C. HALL

The Indian depredations on the Kentucky settlements increased rather than diminished after Bowman's expedition. Although the Indians suffered at Bowman's hands, this was only enough apparently to exasperate them and drive them to worse atrocities. Consequently, another expedition was organized and directed against them.

This expedition was under the command of Gen. George Rogers Clark, who went from Virginia to Kentucky. General Clark is best known for his expedition against the British in Illinois, in 1778.

Being convinced that the Shawnee Indians and the British were allied in the Indian expeditions into Kentucky, he led his expedition against them. Better prepared and equipped, perhaps, than Bowman, Clark not only succeeded in capturing Old Chillicothe, which his men burned, but he went on to the chief Shawnee town known as Piqua, which stood near the spot where the city of Springfield, Ohio, was later established.

Here, in a hard fought battle, he broke the power of the Shawnee nation for many years, until Tecumseh, a native of Piqua and a boy at the time of the battle revived it for a time. The Battle of Piqua is considered the only real battle of the Revolutionary war fought on Ohio soil.

GREETINGS!

A famous French composer was touring the United States, and his itinerary included a visit to the music school of one of the large eastern universities. One of the professors of the school had been delegated to meet him at the railroad station. On his way he suddenly realized that he knew no French and that possibly the musician could not speak English.

When the distinguished Frenchman stepped from the train, the professor could recall only one French phrase; and so, as he shook hands, he almost shouted, "Pate de fois gras. Pate de fois gras!"

The Frenchman looked at him in perplexity, but, grasping his hand, he instantly exclaimed, "Ros bil! Ros bil!"

Sweden issued this stamp in 1924 to commemorate the eighth Universal Postal congress, that met in Stockholm.

Poetry For Today

BUTTERCUPS

There must be fairy miners
Just underneath the mould,
Such wondrous quaint designers
Who live in caves of gold.

They take the shining metals,
And beat them into shreds;
And mould them up into petals,
To make the flowers' heads.

Sometimes they melt the flowers
To tiny seeds like pearls,
And store them up in bowers
For little boys and girls.

And still a tiny fan turns
Above a torge of gold,
To keep, with fairy lanterns,
The world from growing old.

WASHINGTON Off the Record

By SIGRID ARNE

Mrs. J. Hamilton Lewis, wife of the senator from Illinois, is always surrounded at a party by people who want her to tell their fortunes.

They remember the time many years ago when Mrs. Lewis was lunching with another senate wife.

"Do you think my husband will be re-elected to the senate?" the other woman asked. "Let's get him off the floor and you read his palm."

They did. Mrs. Lewis looked startled as she surveyed the man's hand. "You'll be re-elected to a much greater office," she said. "Why, I believe you'll be chosen for the presidency."

Several months later the man was elected President. It was Warren G. Harding whose hand Mrs. Lewis had read.

The New Jersey delegation in congress had a start when they received the following telegram from a mayor of a New Jersey city:

"Re work relief plans stop thirty percent graft inadequate stop we cannot participate on that basis."

"Probably the frankest mayor in America," commented one New Jersey congressman angrily. "What does he mean, graft?"

The wire was traced. The original draft had read, "thirty percent grant."

Hotel managers grinned and put their heads together on a recent night to help out two Tennessee girls here sightseeing. They had forgotten the name and address of their hotel.

They had moved four times in one week trying to find lower rates. They could remember the first three, but the fourth, in which their bags were deposited, they couldn't remember. After some phoning the girls were dispatched to the right address.

Every morning quite early a guard at the White House sees an elderly man enter Lafayette Square across from the White House. The old man kneels, uncovers his head, and after a few minutes hurries off.

The guard finally investigated. "I offer a prayer for the President," said the old man.

The Washington telephone exchange was asked to save the lives of three goldfish and did.

The exchange was called by a perturbed gentleman who had just walked past his neighborhood grocery store and noticed there was not enough water in the goldfish bowl in the window to carry the fish over Sunday. It was Saturday night. The exchange located the grocer, and he rushed to the rescue.

Representative Martin Dies of Texas declares he is finally a success.

"I've been kicking up such dust in congress lately trying to tighten the immigration laws," he says "that a friend of mine in the house asked me to come into his district and make a speech."

Dies was pleased and asked the man what he wanted him to say. "Just say anything you want to against me," said Dies' friend. "It's certain to re-elect me."

A little woman in an antiquated coat rang the door bell of a huge mansion on upper Massachusetts avenue in the ultra-fashionable section. A prim butler in tails answered, holding out a silver card tray.

"I'm just lost," she laughed. "I live on the other side of town, and I haven't been back here for 20 years. The neighborhood is so changed I can't find the home of an old friend who is being buried today."

She was led to a drawing room, and the butler disappeared for directions. When he returned, she asked "This is such a fine place, and all, mister. Whose home is it?"

"This, madam," said the butler, "is the embassy of His Majesty, the King of England."

High Spots In Ohio History

From the Galbraith collection of Ohio Histories. Written for the Associated Press.

Ephraim Cutler, whose father led a movement to found Marietta, was not born on the mainland of the United States. Edgartown, still the principal city on Martha's Vineyard Island, which is a Massachusetts county, was his birthplace. His father, Manasseh Cutler, was a minister.

Ephraim did not move to Ohio until seven years after his father had founded Marietta. On June 15, 1795, he started with his wife and children for the western country, falling in on the way with the families of the Putnams. It proved a difficult journey.

STATES "MAKE UP" IN BEER TAX WAR

Columbus, O.—(AP)—An agreement between Indiana and Ohio over taxes on beer distributed across the state line was reached Friday when the State's Attorney General and two Fort Wayne brewing firms decided to drop a controversy centered about an amended Indiana tax law affecting Ohio beer sold in the Hoosier state. The pact followed lifting of an order prohibiting the Ohio Tax Commission from imposing retaliatory levies.

TELEPHONE PIONEERS TO HOLD CONVENTION

Sandusky—(AP)—The N. C. Kingsbury chapter of the Telephone Pioneers of America met here Saturday for a three-day convention. The chapter claims a membership of 1,600 telephone workers of more than 21 years service.

Flashes of Life

HENNY-PENNY GOES TO TOWN.

Ogdensburg, N. Y.—David Laroek has a hen which dearly loves to go motoring. Every time he leaves his farm at nearby Riverside Drive, he said, the Leghorn perches on the bumper of the car and rides into town.

ROADWORK.

New York—Twenty-five civic minded Queens residents, unsuccessful in efforts to have the Highway Bureau fill the holes in a macadam street, decided to "shame" the officials. They turned out with garden tools and repaired the streets themselves.

JUST IN CASE.

Los Angeles—Mrs. Sylvan L. Orenstein's mother once gave birth to twins. Now the Orensteins are expecting and on the chance multiple births might be a family trait the husband took out a $1,000 insurance policy against twins or more when the stork arrives next September.

If there is only one, Orenstein will be out a $46.53 premium. He is an insurance agent, and said he thought he had good odds.

PREPARED.

Urbana, Ill.—Arthur Julian Nicolet, 69, went to an undertaker's establishment and picked out a coffin. The undertaker stepped into the next room. He heard a shot and rushed back to find his customer fatally shot, a pistol lying near the body.

In Nicolet's pocket the police found a Laconic note: "Illness and financial trouble."

By JACK STINNETT

NEW YORK—Significant as a trend in the post-prohibition era is the descent of the debutantes into the field of entertainment.

Of course, the occasional sortie of a society dame behind the footlights is nothing new, but never have they ventured into the spotlight in such numbers or so intent on having a career rather than a lark. There are half a dozen warbling nightly in Manhattan's hot spots; at least an equal number are fitting across the Hollywood screen; and a few more are doing their bit on the Broadway and summer theater stages.

Our favorite of the lot is a young woman with raven-wing hair and sky-blue eyes, who hides her social register rating under the nom de chanteuse of Kathleen Barrie.

Really she is Mrs. W. R. K. Taylor, Jr. Her father is Benjamin Lathrop, one-time of San Francisco's most exclusive set and long a member of that city's famous Bohemian club, and her mother a member of THE Stevens family of Hoboken, whose ancestral castle still is pointed out as a landmark on the New Jersey shore from the decks of ships that ply New York's channel to the sea.

Elsie Lathrop Taylor was born in San Francisco but left there when an infant.

She has always been musical. At the age of 19, she played her one and only public piano concert, a Bach program in London, which resulted in much talk of a child prodigy.

The war years found Elsie, just entering her teens, and sister Sylvia, a couple of years older, doing war work in London, while Mrs. Lathrop distinguished herself at the front and became the first American woman on the rolls of the French Legion of Honor.

It was not until Elsie Lathrop was Mrs. Taylor that she crooned her first professional note. It was a few years ago when Jack Denny, leading his orchestra at the Waldorf-Astoria, first had the bright idea of allowing debutantes to warble for the guests, with a promise of a try-out on the air, if any one showed talent which merited it. Much to Mr. Denny's amazement, one did, and such talent that Mrs. Taylor was signed for a five-month engagement.

Later, she applied for a radio audition under the name of Kathleen Barrie...admitted no previous experience...and as Kathleen Barrie, she has been doing her numbers over the ether and in night clubs for two years.

When her present engagement at the Rockefeller Center Rainbow room is completed, she'll be off on the Queen Mary for a vacation and to resume her study in sculpture, which, she admits, fascinates her almost as much as singing or playing the piano or being a perfect housewife and hostess or rearing her two children...versatile, these young society women.

Urbana, O., (AP)—A birthday cake three feet high. As big around as a wash tub and lighted by 125 candles excited many "ohs" and "ahs" at the 125 anniversary of the founding of the Methodist church here. Then the candles burned low and the cake caught fire—it was made of paper.

CINCY REDS

COP FIVE STRAIGHT

Threaten to Do a Max Schmeling to the Experts in Pennant Race

PIRATES AND GIANTS

Pull Each Other Down. Chicago Defets Pesky Bees. Dodgers Lose to Cards

By SID FEDER

The Cincinnati Reds, whose association with the National League cellar was so constant it had become more or less of a habit until Manager Charlie Dressen took over, are threatening to do a Max Schmeling on the experts this season.

While the Pirates and the Giants have been fighting it out at the tail-end of the first division, the red-hot Reds, previously rated no better than the sixth place they held last year, have been creeping up until they now are only two games out of that select set.

A general pitching improvement, particularly in Al Hollingsworth, is largely responsible, but along with this are such factors as the grand comeback of Kiki Cuyler, the snappy first-base work of Les Scarfella, recent importation from Toronto, and the improved hitting of shortstop Billy Myers and second sacker Alex Kampouris.

The Reds stretched a current winning streak to five games yesterday, at the expense of the Phillies, 11-6.

The Giants were dropped back into fourth place, after a third-place run of only a day, when the Cubs clawed them 3-1. The Pirates reclaimed third-place by nosing out the Boston Bees 2-1, with Red Lucas the victor over Danny MacFayden in a tight hurling duel.

At the same time, the Cardinals were hanging onto their tiny lead over the Cubs by coming from behind to belt the hapless Dodgers 6-1.

The only American League game resulted in an 8-7 victory for the Cleveland Indians over the Red Sox when Joe Vosmik broke up the proceedings with a home run in the tenth.

Bad weather forced postponement of the Washington-Chicago and Philadelphia-Detroit engagements. The Yanks' battle at St. Louis had been put back previously to allow for a doubleheader Sunday.

Sailing Boats

Ready For Race

NOW RIDING THE WAVES AT TOLEDO HARBOR

Toledo, O., June 27—(AP)—A score of the fastest sailing boats on Lake Erie rode the whitecaps at Toledo Harbor light today in readiness for the Merrill B. Mills long distance race.

Their course was expected to include Put-In-Bay and Detroit, but the exact route awaited an announcement from the judges just before the starting flag.

The Lasalle, owned by Russell Moore of Toledo, but flying the colors of the Detroit Yacht Club, is defending three trophies it took last year.

The 40-foot sloop took the Toledo Times cup for the first boat to cross the finish line, the Mills trophy for the yacht with the lowest corrected time, and the Edward Ford trophy for the first division of Class A boats.

Three other awards are up for the overnight race, first sailed in 1907. They are the Toledo Blade trophy for second division, Class A; the governor Harmon trophy for first division, Class B, and the Toledo Yacht Club trophy for second division, Class B.

The race attracts annually fast entries from Detroit, Cleveland, Sandusky, Port Clinton, Vermilion and Sarnia, Ont.

Tidbit Tales

By BILL BRAUCHER

Will Schmeling beat Braddock? And become the first heavyweight champion in history to regain the title?

After the drubbing Max gave the Dark Dud, who came into the ring with some reputation as a boxer, it might be said off hand that Der Schlager should have little trouble with Braddock who never has been noted for cuteness with his mitts.

But if you'll think it over, several probable elements in the coming brawl may make you change your mind. When he bumps into Braddock, Schmeling will be meeting a man with the heart of an iron horse. The September bout between these two men might be called "The Battle of the Fighting Hearts."

IF THEY GET MAD!

One German to the core, the other as Irish as Paddy's pig, these two share a common bond of fierce courage. Each has high pride in his own prowess. It is pride backed by persistence and fed by bitterness. Each is frequently driven by anger. In his fight with Louis, the fires of Schmeling's wrath were fanned by press references to him as "the condemned man" and to Louis as "the executioner."

It is hard to determine how much Max's splendid fight against Louis was inspired by his pride, and in what degree his onslaught was fed by hatred for the popular illusion.

that Louis represented (the "super-man"), but the German could not hide the goading fury that rode him when the gong sent him out to face the Negro.

Braddock brings the same spiritual companions into the ring with him that serve Schmeling so well.

Joe McCarthy Pie Traynor

The champion has been knocked cold (and so has the ex-champ), but the former dock wallop does not know what it means to quit.

Schmeling took an idol apart and showed the world what made it tick. So did Braddock when he out-gamed and out-fought the odds-on Max Baer last year. Each has been cast in the role of underdog, destroyer of dragons.

What will happen when they meet? Continued in a later issue!

RANDOM NOTES

Pie Traynor, listed as playing manager of the Pirates, and Frankie Frisch, playing manager of the Cards, have been doing a swell job of the bench this year... with Bill Brubaker getting along very nicely at third for the Bucs, and Stu Martin romping around second for the Cards... If Barney Ross takes on Pedro Montanez in July, he may be spared the privilege of defending the welterweight title in Australia next winter... because Pedro is nobody's bull-pen pitcher... When Joe McCarthy goes to Boston to manage the American League All-Star team he probably will find half a dozen of his own Yanks on the club... Gehrig, Di Maggio, Pearson, Crosetti, Ruffing, Dickey are strong candidates.

Anybody's Race In Mid-Atlantic

ZANESVILLE LOSES SOME OF ITS LEAD

Columbus, O., June 27—(AP)—What with some set-backs and upsets, the first half of the Mid-Atlantic race was mathematically anybody's today. Mathematically.

An even ten games separated the leading Zanesville Greys and the trailing Portsmouth Panthers. The Greys has 11 games to play, the Panthers 10. Portsmouth has won five in a row.

Zanesville lost a good slice of its lead last night when Huntington ended a four-game losing streak at the Greys' expense, 5 to 4. Alston, who hit a homer for the Red Birds in the fifth, did it again in the ninth with one on for the winning runs.

Canton's surprising Terriers made hay meanwhile in the Charleston Meadows, 5 to 2, reducing the Greys' lead to one and a half games. The Terriers pulled four runs out of the hat in the ninth inning.

Portsmouth kicked the skidding Akron Yankees again and again, 3 to 2 twice in a doubleheader, to win its first series this season.

Dayton's Ducks won their third straight over Johnstown, 6 to 3. Kalasut of Dayton sent a low liner to left in the fourth with two on and Freddie Johnston left fielder, missed a shoestring catch. The ball went for a homer and three runs.

BRITISH GOLF OPEN IS WON BY PADGHAM; SARAZEN IS FOURTH

American Falters as He Nears Finish While Close Behind Leaders

BULLETIN

Hoyleake, Eng., June 27—(AP)—

After knocking at the door of the title many years, Alf Padgham, tall and rugged British professional, won the Open golf championship, with 287 today as Henry Cotton, former titleholder and the favorite, faltered down the stretch and finished with 289.

Jim Adams, the Scottish Open champion, finished a stroke behind Padgham, shooting the last two rounds of the 72-medal test in 71, 73, for an aggregate of 288.

Three shots back of Cotton and Adams, the leaders by a stroke at the end of the morning round, Sarazen went out in 35 on his final round. He was two under par through the 70th, but lost those strokes on the last two holes for an incoming 38 and a final 73 after earlier rounds of 73, 70, and 70.

Chuck Kocsis On "Comeback"

WILL BATTLE IT OUT WITH PAUL LESLIE AT CHICAGO

Chicago, June 27—(AP)—Michigan's Chuck Kocsis, hero of two rousing comeback triumphs, and Paul Leslie of Louisiana State University, hero of one of the biggest upsets, set out over the North Shore Club's wide acreage today to battle it out for the National intercollegiate golf crown.

Kocsis, a pre-tournament favorite, reached the final as scheduled, but at least three times during the association's 38th annual championship roundup, it looked as if he wouldn't make it. Each time, however, he turned on the heat in time to reach the battle.

STOP HAGEN

Toledo, O., June 27—(AP)—"Who is going to stop Hagen and Laffoon" was the question today as 16 of the nation's outstanding professional golfers started the fourth matches of the seven-round Inverness best-ball team play tourney.

For with the annual classic almost half over, the old master "The Hag," and his young partner, Ky Laffoon of Chicago, were far in front. The veteran cracked in six birdies yesterday as he and Laffoon turned in a best ball of 63, eight under par for the tough Inverness layout to win a match by six holes.

Hagen's own medal score was 65, five under even figures and one of his finest efforts in years. This morning the two leaders, with a five-hole edge over the field, tangled with Henry Picard of Hershey, Pa., and Johnny Revolta, the P. G. A. champion from Chicago.

Boston, June 27—(AP)—The National and American League All-Star teams will take the field here July 7 with two of the most spectacular rookies in many years on opposing teams.

Joe Di Maggio, brilliant Yankee outfielder, and Stuart Martin, Cards' infielder, each in his first year in the majors, made the grade in a nationwide poll of baseball fans conducted by newspapers to decide 16 of the 21 players to represent each league in the mid-season classic.

Joe McCarthy of the Yankees and Charley Grimm of the Cubs were named rival managers, and each will select the other five players.

The material from which they may close still includes such stars as Al Simmons, Joe Cronin, Mel Harder, Joe Vosmik, Paul Waner, Frankie Frisch, Pepper Martin, and eleven other participants in last year's fixture, all of whom failed to gain places in the balloting this year.

"Dizzy" Dean led all players with 41,900 votes with Charlie Gehringer a close second with 41,385, Gabby Hartnett third with 41,385, and Bob Grove fourth with 40,640.

The National League squad: Outfielders—Joe Di Maggio, Cards; Mel Ott and Joe Moore, Giants; Wally Berger, Bees; Frank Demaree, Cubs.

Home Runs

Now a Symphony

Chicago, June 27—(AP)—The long-range hitters are playing a merry "home run symphony" in the American Association this season.

Since the start of the year approximately 400 four-base blows have been made, with game after game being decided by fence-busting drives. Leading the home-run parade at present is Jack Winsett, the slugging Columbus outfielder, who has 31 to his credit.

The veteran Joe Hauser of the Minneapolis Millers, hit 63 homers in 1933 for a circuit record. Hauser isn't hitting them at that rate this season, but he made his 11th and 12th yesterday as his club trimmed the Kansas City Blues 6 to 0.

St. Paul evened the series with the league leading Milwaukee Brewers, the Saints taking a 7-4 decision.

Even Winsett's 30th and 31st homers weren't enough as Columbus dropped a 10 to 6 night slugfest to the Toledo Mudhens. Toledo pounded out 17 hits, routing pitcher Mike Rybt, late of the St. Louis Cardinals.

The Louisville Colonels gauged up on Indianapolis pitching for the second straight night, rapping Bolen, Trout and Crandall for 18 blows and a 12 to 3 victory.

Sport Slant's

By CHARLES GRUMICH

New York—There never was anything in Flitiana quite like the bursting of the Brown Bubble.

The demolition of Joe Louis under Max Schmeling's right power-ed by a stout heart still has the critics gasping on the defensive side over a fistic fiesta that looked in the preview like nothing but the sad end of the German's ring career.

Joe Louis was the critics' pick and practically everyone else's, too—the super fighter. Now the second-guessers are plaguing the critics because they forgot to consider what would develop if Joe Louis himself happened to get hit, which occurred quite often and effectively in the Yankee Stadium.

It is highly probable that Joe hadn't considered what to do if he was struck hard—really hard. When he was floored in the fourth round he proved his unfamiliarity with the situation by bounding back without taking the few seconds of recuperative time allowed before the referee tolls "ten."

THE FOUR C'S

The experts didn't take into account, either, that Max Schmeling had mastered the four C's of Cauliflower College: Courage, Condition, Confidence, Control. Louis was a rank beginner in the matter of control—not the same Brown Bomber who plastered Max Baer in the fourth heat last September. There is some lingering doubt about Louis' condition, whereas Schmeling was in the pink. As for confidence, the Brown Bubble was on the wrong side—over confidence, obviously. You can't question his courage.

Had a youngster unwise to the honied ways of the handout hounds listened and heeded, he'd have picked the winner and been an expert cum laude. Instead, all us wise guys had tongue-in-cheek when the air castles were being built at Napanoch and razed at Lakewood.

It's interesting, sometimes, to turn back to training camp statements—to see how they stack up with what happened in the ring. Louis only played his harmonica when questioners collared him at Lakewood, so he can be dismissed.

A writer at Napanoch asked Schmeling: "Are you afraid of Joe Louis?" to which Ded Schlager replied: "Are you afraid to go to work in the morning?" Schmeling kept insisting the Louis he saw in the movies against Max Baer and in the flesh against Uzcudun was very amateurish. This usually caused a lot of snickering in the press bungalow after Max walked home to his sylvan retreat up the Shawangunk mountain.

But Maxie made Joe look like a rank amateur with an orthodox right for which an experienced stumblebum should have devised some sort of makeshift defense. Max actually measured the Bubble his left and drove home the right frequently. The critics, to a man felt every one of those long, stinging blows that found Joe leading with his chin.

The only solace for the typewriter-pounders was that they saw a great fight—going the wrong way. We stopped a badly singed critic in the midst of composing his apology for the unkind things he had said about Schmeling before the fight. "But," he enthused, "it'll make a great fight between Braddock and Schmeling in September. And what that Schmeling won't do to the champ..."

They're incurable, these experts.

DOCKED PAY IRKS ERIN'S EX-SOLONS

Dublin (P)—Members of the abolished Free State senate are really angry, not so much because they have lost their positions, but because of a trick which, they allege, Sean Macentee, finance minister, played on them.

When they received their final pay checks they discovered that they had each been docked $15, representing three days' pay. The minister holds they were unemployed three days before the end of the month and he refuses to pay them the full month's salary.

The ex-senators retort that they are amazed by his meanness and that his action is illegal. The senate had 60 members so the minister saved $900.

Woolworth Heiress Plans Mansion in London Estate

London (A)—When 4-month-old Count Lance Haugwitz von Reventlow moves to his new home in the heart of London, he will find something very much like a paradise in which to toddle—but a paradise safeguarded by steel and wire-net fences.

The youthful heir to what is left of the former Barbara Hutton's $40,000,000 Woolworth fortune, whose parents reportedly have decided to make their permanent home abroad "because of fear of American gangsters," is slated to take up residence on the edge of Regent's Park in a mansion to be built on the site of an old house last used as a mission for blind ex-soldiers.

FENCES BAR INTRUDERS

There are 10 acres of beautiful grounds circled by fences five to seven feet high which will serve as protection in the event that even in England a gang might decide it will be worth the risk to attempt to kidnap the child.

The fences are backed by a solid phalanx of hedges and shrubs, and trees of a dozen varieties form the next line of defense. Baby Lance will be able to wander around in almost perfect safety when he gets big enough to walk. The barriers against the outer world will keep

QUIET SPOT IN LONDON

If Lance develops the normal penchant for childish adventure the thick shrubbery, the woods and one or two half-hidden statues probably will provide sufficient food for his imagination. He will have plenty of ground to explore.

Only a few minutes by car from Piccadilly Circus, the estate is almost completely insulated against the noise of traffic and shut off from the view of kibitzers.

It is flanked on one side by the road which circles the park, and on the others by a small playground, a boating lake and an open-air cafe.

Laughter of children in the playground may be heard on the von

Reventlow side of the fence, but little else will disturb the quiet of the mid-city estate.

The present mansion, which has been empty for nine years, is to be torn down. It was acquired by the late Sir Arthur Pearson in 1915 and became the original home of the St. Dunstan's mission for blind ex-soldiers.

The trek to Topeka is the latest in popular migration.

Who Was She to Question Fate?

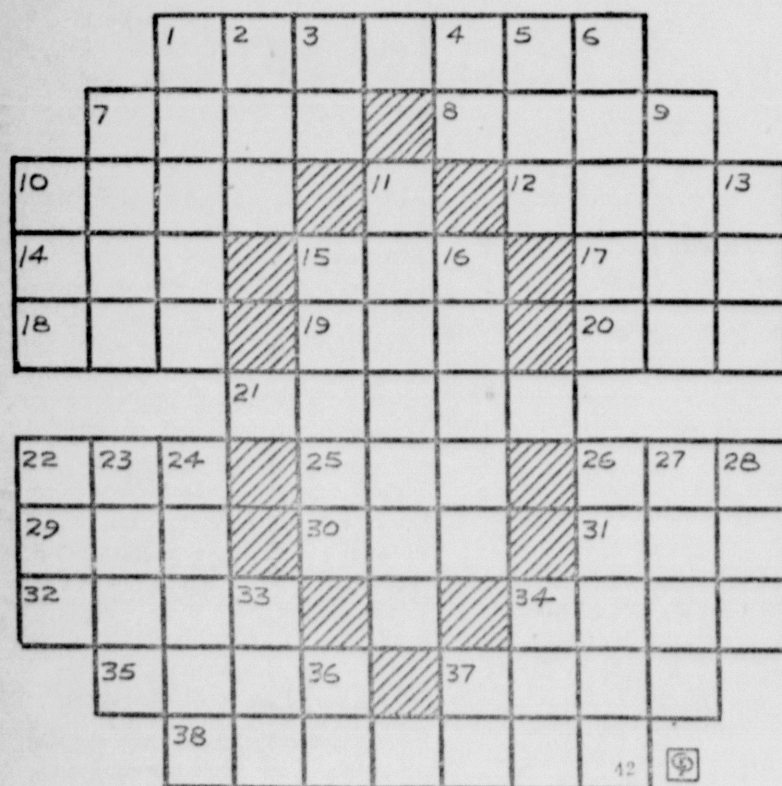

THAT'S what Joan Spencer asked her sister when Joan received the mysterious letter from Julian Sloane, the noted playwright. He was impressed with her qualifications for a secretarial position, he wrote, and would like to interview her at his summer home. Joan jumped at the opportunity even though she knew the letter was not intended for her. You will realize why she never regretted that move if you read.
